

COURSE DESCRIPTION

2016 Winter Session (2016-2017 Academic Year)

ENGL 225-001: Poetry: A Guide for the Perplexed- Mary Chapman

Poetry

Term 1

TTh, 11:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.

Reading poetry can be fun. This course will foster poetry-reading skills by discussing a variety of poems written in English. We will look at contemporary as well as historical examples and pay attention to the techniques, tropes, and forms that contribute to a poem's meaning. Students will do casual writing and write short essays which they will be given the opportunity to revise. This course will be an excellent introduction for students interested in writing as well as reading poetry.